How to withdraw from a course at Athabasca. Is Athabasca University legitimate. How to transfer credits from Athabasca University.

Following the correct process and timelines for registering in, withdrawing from and extending your courses will help keep your AU experience running smoothly. Undergraduate courses begin on the first of each month. You must register and pay by the 10th of the month to start your course on the 1st of the next month. How to register for courses You can withdraw from a course with no academic penalty within the first 30 days of the course and it will not appear on your transcript. Withdrawals after this time will result in a grade of "W" (Withdrawal) on your transcript. Courses with a "W" grade are not included in your GPA. You may not withdraw from a course in the following situations when you have written the final exam after all coursework has been submitted for marking if there is no final exam if you are involved in a disciplinary proceeding involving academic or non-academic misconduct Withdrawal process You must follow the Withdraw From a Course process in myAU to withdraw from a course. Not completing your course requirements does not count as withdrawing. Refunds You will be eligible for a refund (minus a processing fee) if you withdraw within the first 30 days of the course. You may also be eligible for a learning resource fee refund if we receive your learning resources complete, unmarked and undamaged within 30 days of your course withdrawal. The
